

Forecast For Southwest England
Issued by Met Office Exeter
at 0400 on Tuesday 21 Dec 2021

++ Valid for broadcast between 0600 and 1800

Headline:

Dry and chilly today, but rain spreading east tomorrow.

Today:

After a chilly start, Tuesday will be another dry albeit mostly cloudy day. There is however a better prospect of sunny intervals at times, these most likely during the afternoon. Feeling pretty chilly despite light winds. Maximum temperature 9 deg C (48 deg F).

Tonight:

Increasingly lengthy clear periods developing this evening and overnight. Temperatures widely falling to freezing or just below with a frost for most and a few isolated fog patches. Minimum temperature -2 deg C (28 deg F).

Wednesday:

A bright start for some but cloud and rain arriving in Cornwall by lunchtime, spreading east to most of the region during the afternoon. Turning milder in west later. Breezier. Maximum temperature 12 deg C (54 deg F).

Outlook for Thursday to Saturday:

Unsettled and milder with occasional rain and low cloud, with mist and hill fog at times. Further wet and windy weather is likely on Christmas Day but possibly colder later.

(C) Crown Copyright 2021. Published by the Met Office.